Atlantis Asian Fund

A sub-fund of the Atlantis International Umbrella Fund

Managed by Atlantis Investment Management (Ireland) Limited.

Objectives and Investment Policy

The fund aims to generate long-term capital appreciation.

The fund invests primarily in equities or equity-related securities issued by companies located in Asia (excluding Japan). These securities may be listed or traded on a range of regulated stock exchanges, although the fund may invest up to 10% of its net assets in non-listed companies.

The investment manager of the fund is permitted to choose which investments should be held in the fund. The fund invests in companies that the investment manager and fund advisor believe are undervalued and are experiencing growth that is not yet reflected in their share price.

The fund uses the MSCI All Country Far East ex Japan Index as a benchmark in order to calculate its fees and for performance comparison purposes.

Investors have the opportunity to redeem their units in the fund on each business day.

Any income arising from the fund's investments is usually reinvested.

For further information please see the 'Investment Objective and Policies' sections of supplement to the prospectus for the fund.

Why is the fund in this category?

Funds in this category have shown a high historical volatility. Volatility describes how much the value of the fund went up and down in the past.

The fund invests in some emerging markets where there may be a significant risk of political or economic change which could adversely affect the value of investments held there.

The fund also invests in the shares of smaller to medium sized companies which may have a more limited market than securities issued by larger companies.

This unit class's net asset value is calculated in US dollars while the fund's investments are denominated in the currencies of the countries in which it invests. The fund's performance may therefore be adversely affected by exchange rate movements.

Full detail of the fund's risk factors is included in the fund's prospectus.
